Tur plates for the five and ten thousand

Now that Connecticut has elected a Republican Lagislature, the State would honor itself by the election of General Joseph R. Hawley nore than to any other man that the Republicans owe their vice tory in Connecticut, and of all the gentleman manded, he would hanke the whiles and most creditable Senator. He is a decided partiasm, but under it all there is sets strong foundation of honesty that gives lustre to a statemen in these degenerate days.

Too Georg te Last.

With the approach of winter, the fire record grows longer and the figures get lagger. Two months of the year bean beautiful to hear from before the underwriters can be sure of their footing or tell whether heliciter off at its end than they were when they ear began. So fat as the statistics go, they indicate a less aggregate loss by fire in the United States and Canada than last year or the year before. But, leaving out the sust three specific the sustence and any server of the year begin. The sustence is a strong foundation of the state of their footing or tell whether their twelve months work finds them any hetter off at its end than they were when the year before. But, leaving out the hear of the fronting on the state of the footing of the post of the state of the footing of the post of the post of the post of the footing of the post of the p sity of insurance.

The admirable fire tables of the Chronicle tell us that for September alone the record of fires and losses to insurance companies foots up $4.558,800 and $2.441,800, respectively. And this was their geographical distribution.

This year, thus far, we have had less than the naul proportion of millionaire lires and no visitation at all of the besom of destruction such as fell upon-St. John and Pittsburgh last year. But, as we have will there are, two months before, main and l'itsourgales year. Journal of the companies and there are two months before us in while all such deficiencies may easily be more than made up. And, as both fires and insurance are the subjects of average, it may not be amiss to suggest that, utiless 1877 is to set itself up as a defier of precedent, a considerable part of its delicioney is pretty certain to be made up in time to change the accounts from profit to loss on the companies books. Taking the fire statistics of past, years as as a criterion, we will find that the current year has really been remarkably exempt thus far—too much so to feed the expectation that the good fortune can continue to the end. For example:

1877 (9 months. 12.77 % (25.25) 48,053,050 1873 (9 months. 12.77 % (25.25) 25,353,050 Obviously, if the fire-fiend proposes to respect the law of average, the next eight weeks will send along reports of fires (and big ones too) in rapid succession. Underwriters and uninsured properly owners have no right to presume upon anything else. Otherwise, the year, 1878 will have a peculiar record of exceptional immunity. Nothing could be more gratifying than to know that this fearful lire wastage had reached its summit fevel and was at length on the decline. But fear is stronger than hope in this direction, and the "probabilities" tell us that, between this and becember 31, a good many heaps of ashes will be left to represent what now stands for about $25,000,000 worth of property. The prospect is not a comforting one. But what is to hinder?

The Ballots they Used in Boston.

From the Asgusta (Me.) Jearnal.

We have been shown speciment of the different political tickets cast in Boston at the recent election. They are as large as hand-bills, and some of them as fantastic in device. The greenback-Labor ticket, with Butler's name at the head, had a good-sized picture, containing the seal of Massachusetts, with a laboring man on one side, a soldier on the other, and an eagle overhead. The back of this ticket is in imitation of a greenback note, with part of the platform of the party on it. The straight Democratic, with Abott's name, has Funcuil Hall, the maid of industry on one side, and on the other, in blue ground, heads of Washington, Jackson, and Me Clellan. The Republican ticket is pink, striped with red on one side, and on the other, in blue ground, heads of Washington, Jackson, and Me Clellan.
